

New Weather Radar Features Added to CAPS Site

Closeups, animation and other enhancements of weather radar are now available on the homepage of the CAPS site. Users not only get national and regional radar images, but close-ups, enlargements, recentering and animation are among the additional features offered via technology from DTN, the provider of the service,

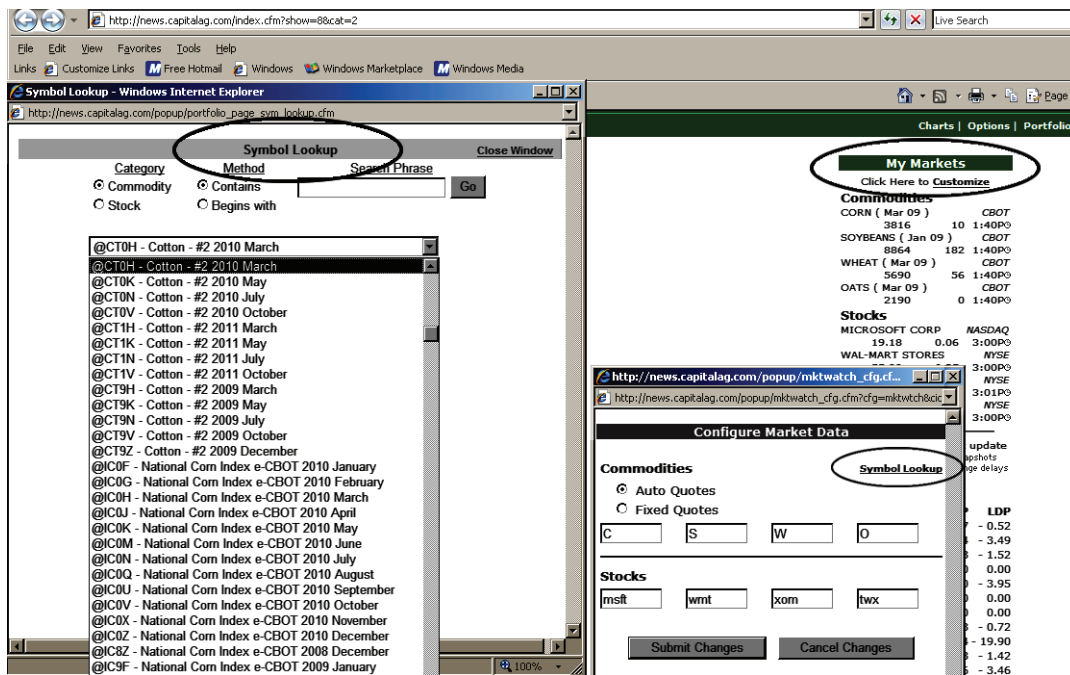

When the web site opens the weather radar screen is on the righthand side of the window, This will be a default image until a zip code or city and state is entered (1) to call up a regional map. At that point the user can simply click on that regional image and a new window (inserted in the left area of the image) will open.

From here the map can be re-centered on different areas (2), radar animation can be turned on and off (3), the size of the image in the window (4) can be enlarged and reduced by selecting a percentage size from the drop-down menu, and the image can be alternated between regional and national (5) images.

Layout Changes to Market Segment of CAPS Site

With the new DTN layout, customization of the markets segment is still available but is located differently. Once the markets page comes up, look for the “customize” hotlink under “My Markets” on the righthand side.

This will open the “Configure Market Data” box where selections can be made.

For more options and details, click on the “symbol lookup” link which will bring up another box (far left side of image) with more options and a drop-down menu of commodity options,

Be sure to save all changes before leaving the menu boxes so that your market selections will be available each time you go to the CAPS site.
